Systems for backend

CMS

The easiest way is to take WordPress but I know it is not the best option. Wordpress has a lot of plugins and big community but is don't stable. But if you want to do website the easiest way WordPress is the best.

I will pick Drupal. They have a big number of plugins and it is stable.

Anyway, I'm guessing you will use blogger, right?

Students chat

I found 2, in my opinion, the best apps for the chat.

1. TLK.IO - This one is easy, fast and simple web chat implemented with 2 lines of html. A user can enter with twitter, facebook or with nick.

Implementing:

Implementing tlk.io is so easy. Only what you need is add few lines of code to html. User will only enter nick and he can connect with chat.

```
<script async src="http://tlk.io/embed.js" type="text/javascript"></script>
```

For more implementations options go to <https://tlk.io/#embed>

2. DISCORD (with this) - Discord chat has a lot more options but is harder to implement and more complicated.

Implementing:

Implementing it's more complicated them tlk.io but still easy. Before you start you must have created discord server. Let's start.

1. Go to <https://titanembeds.com/>.
2. Click button "START HERE!" or "LOGIN" in top right corner
3. Login to your discord account.
4. If you'll not redirection, go to the user dashboard.
5. Find your server and click button "MODIFY"
6. Invite bot to you server. Give him permission to manage server, kick member and ban member.
7. After invited bot you will be redirected to server administration page.
8. In section "Embed URLs" you have iframe html tag. Copy them to your html.

Students community

Community, community, community... First, my think is discord but a forum is a good option too.

1. Discord (link upper) - A lot of people use discord every day. Anyone can create discord server with 2 clicks.
2. Forum (eg. phpBB) - Create a forum is more complicated. The forum has more options them discord but is completely another tool. On Forum you have threads, posts, comments. The forum is more "official".

I think the better option for a community is discord because on discord everyone feels like in a family.

Publishing photos on the web

I always use imgur and I think is the best.

Any other menu entry not usually covered by a CMS

Calendar

Google calendar closes discussions.
