

Flutter

I've been working with flutter past few months and I find it quite easy to learn. I have been learning with java and xml which is a lot of code and requires a lot of time to be learned but flutter is easy to learn and has less boilerplate code. Also there are some features that make the development even easier. Like the Hot reload making the running process faster, reformat code so the code looks clean and arranged, the flutter inspector lets us see all the widgets in a tree making the debugging process easier also there's similar source code for both android and iOS. Flutter is perfect for a beginner to start with android development. I find that I've wasted my time on java and xml as flutter helps us create good apps within no time.
